LBJ Aide's Record under Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walt W. Rostow, special assistant to President Johnson, denies assertion he was three times rejected for security clearance during President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration.

LBJ Not Ready To Bomb Port, Senator Says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell says President Johnson is not ready to bomb North Vietnam's Port of Haiphong "but he's doing a great many things today he refused to do a year ago."

Russell, the veteran Georgia Democrat who heads the Senate Armed Services Committee and is a long-time Johnson friend, said Friday in an interview he supports the view of Adm. U.S. Grant Sharp that the bombing of the port would end the war quickly.

"That is what I have been advocating for two years," Russell said. "I think we can win the war in Vietnam the way we are fighting it now, but it is going to cost more lives and more money than if we acted decisively to end it."

"We are making slow but steady progress, but at a price I for one do not think we should pay."

Sharp, Pacific military commander in chief, said earlier Friday in Annapolis, Md., that it would be most helpful militarily to bomb Haiphong's port. He conceded this presented a "difficult decision for our government to make" because in hitting docks, ships alongside of them—possibly including Soviet supply ships—might be damaged.

But Sharp said Hanoi gets 70 per cent of its supplies through Haiphong and he felt bombing the port would end the war quickly. Russell agreed with this estimate.

"I am sure the President is not ready to order the air strikes at this point," Russell said. "But he is doing a great many things today that he refused to do a year ago. I would not want to predict what he would do in the future."

Russell said he thinks the channel leading to the port could be bombed into disuse because it must be dredged continually to accommodate the larger ships. He said that at least two other ports, which see little activity now, also should be knocked out to prevent diverting of shipping to them.

Russell said he doesn't agree with those who say a blockade against their shipping might bring the Soviet Union and Red China into the war.

"The Russians didn't start a war when we blockaded them around Cuba," he said. "I think the Russians work tirelessly at subversion but I don't think they are militarily aggressive at this point."

Excuse for Traffic Tie-up Sounds Fishy

WOBURN, Mass. (AP) — A two-mile-long traffic jam on Route 93 Friday was blamed on fresh fish.

State police said the fish spilled from a truck which overturned. Several accidents were reported in the area as motorists lost control of cars in the slippery mess.

"We had a foot of fish across the northbound lane," police said. "Traffic was tied up for three hours."

"From 1951 onward," Rostow told a reporter when asked Friday about the brief's allegations, "I had continuous security clearance from various agencies of the federal government."

Eisenhower took office in 1953. The State Department said only: "There will be no comment from the Department of State on any matter involving the Otepa case while that case is being heard."

While the brief has never been made public and Otepa's attorney, Roger Robb, declined to discuss it, a person who has seen it gave a newsman some details.

This informant, who would not permit use of his name, confirmed the brief makes the reported statement about Rostow and the Eisenhower administration.

The informant said, however, that he understood the rejections of Rostow for certain assignments at that time were not based on security reasons but because Rostow's particular talent did not meet the requirements.

Rostow, 51, has long had a reputation for scholarly achievement in international studies and has been a prolific writer in this field. His current White House post is that of chief adviser on international matters. He is widely regarded as one of the strong voices in the administration for U.S. firmness in Vietnam.

The late President John F. Kennedy brought Rostow into the government from Massachusetts Institute of Technology where he was a professor of economics.

While Rostow said he had had security clearance since 1951, he did not say why he had been given it at that time, a year when Harry S. Truman was president.

Rostow's biographical data on Who's Who list him as a staff member in 1951 of the Center for International Studies, a private agency. Eminent scholars sometimes receive security clearance so they may make use of classified documents in their studies.

The brief for Otepa was reported to develop an argument that a "get Otepa" effort had its beginnings when the Kennedy administration came into office.

It was said to cite testimony from Otepa to the effect that he was called into a meeting in December 1960, with Dean Rusk, secretary of state, designate in the new administration, and Robert F. Kennedy, choice of his brother-president for attorney general.

They were reported to have told Otepa that Rostow would be appointed to a State Department post and to have sought emergency clearance for Rostow without a field investigation.

Otepa was said to have balked and stated he knew of information in Central Intelligence Agency and Air Force files that made him feel a field investigation was advisable.

As to the Eisenhower administration's rejection of Rostow, the brief was reported to say he was rejected in 1955 by Herbert

GOP Solons Are Adamant On Bill Stand

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Republicans show no inclination to lower the $5 billion price tag they have attached to their support of an emergency appropriation bill.

Democratic opponents, jittery over one recent close call, continue to search for an attractive counterproposal in an attempt to lure back into line some colleagues who have been supporting the GOP demand.

Republicans headed by Rep. Frank T. Bow of Ohio, senior GOP member of the Appropriations Committee, insist that an emergency money bill scheduled for House action Wednesday include a directive to the President to cut spending at least $5 billion.

They came within eight votes of winning two weeks ago when the House passed the third emergency money bill since the fiscal year started July 1. The bills finance agencies whose regular appropriations for the year have not cleared Congress.

"I don't see any ground for compromise," Bow said Friday. "There's only one way to cut spending, and we must cut it, and that is the direct approach I have been proposing."

Bow added that if the President won't cut the budget, Congress should order him to do it.

Democrats counter that the responsibility for cutting is up to Congress, which provides the money in the first place and spells out how and where it should be spent.

Democrats on the Appropriations Committee huddled for several hours Friday without agreeing on a plan to counter the Republican move. There reportedly was strong sentiment for adding to the emergency money bill a mandatory freeze on federal employment until Congress can cut back on some of the money it already has appropriated.

Between now and Monday Democrats hope to come up with an answer. The entire Appropriations Committee meets then to write the emergency appropriation bill.

Unless emergency funds are provided, many agencies will be technically moneyless starting next Monday, when the present stopgap financing law expires. Democrats claim they have been assured the Senate would not accept the Republican proposal.

"It would be futile to send them such a bill," one top Democrat said. "They would turn it down and we would find ourselves in a Senate-House fight that could bring some agencies to a halt next Monday."

"We have got to come up with something we can sell to the House and to the Senate."

Key administration officials meanwhile still are hoping for approval this year of higher taxes despite the apparent intransigence of Congress thus far.

One administration insider said it's inconceivable to him that Congress would fail to adopt higher taxes before adjourning this year.

U.S. Bombers Strike Con Thien by Mistake

PROSECUTION TESTIMONY — Delmar Dennis, 27, testified at trial of 18 men in Meridian, Miss., in the murder of three civil rights workers in 1964 that his chapter of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan was about to vote on whether to kill civil rights worker Michael Schwerner when Klan organizer Edgar R. Killen said the vote wouldn't be necessary since Schwerner's "elimination" had been approved at the Klan's state level. Dennis said he later left the Klan to become an FBI informer for $3,000 in cash and $100 weekly.

Civil Rights Trial Continues

Defense Counsel Begins Testimony

MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The defense is calling the bulk of its witnesses today in an attempt to punch holes in the Justice Department's case against 18 white men charged with conspiracy in the deaths of three civil rights workers.

U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox ordered a rare Saturday session to expedite the trial.

Defense lawyers said the case would probably go to the all-white jury of seven women and five men by the middle of next week.

Twenty-four defense witnesses testified Friday to the defendant's character and whereabouts at the time the prosecution says the workers were slain on June 21, 1964.

The name of "Jim Jordan" emerged as the central figure in the testimony. James E. Jordan, 41, a former Meridian resident and Ku Klux Klan member, turned states evidence Thursday and told his story of how the trio was slain.

The defense countered with Alfred Keene, who testified he worked with a Jim Jordan in Gulfport in October 1964. Keene said Jordan told him that he—Jordan—shot two white civil rights workers and a Negro on a June night near Philadelphia.

He said Jordan told him that he killed the two white men in the back seat of their station wagon and the Negro as he was running from the car.

The bullet-riddled bodies of Michael Schwerner, 24, and Andrew Goodman, 20, white New Yorkers, and James Chaney, 22, a Meridian Negro, were found buried in an earthen dam on Aug. 4, 1964, after a 44-day search.

Their charred station wagon was found June 23, 1964, about 13 miles north of Philadelphia, Miss.

Keene said he helped Jordan get a job in Gulfport and said the story was told to him as they were driving to work.

Earlier, "Jim Jordan" figured prominently in a statement FBI agents said they obtained from Horace Doyle Barnette.

Perfect Friday 13th For Girl Unbeliever

CHICAGO (AP) — Black cats at midnight on Friday the 13th don't bother Linda Lewandowski, but bowling balls do: One stuck to her thumb.

Doctors at Cook County Hospital had to remove a 10-pound bowling ball from Miss Lewandowski's thumb after it got stuck Friday during an evening bowling session.

When Miss Lewandowski, 21, showed her predicament to the bowling alley manager and requested permission to take the ball to the hospital, she had to sign for it. And she says she'll probably have to pay for the ball because the doctors chipped it during the removal.

While returning home from the hospital, Miss Lewandowski dropped the ball on her foot, making her Friday the 13th complete.

Reds Increase Terror Raids In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist bombs wounded four more police and 16 civilians today, including four small children, after a night of terror in which two persons were killed and 33 wounded.

Anti-British terrorists planted more than 40 bombs throughout Hong Kong Island and across the harbor channel in Kowloon today.

They hurled two or three bombs into a crowd at the entrance of a Chinese fish and vegetable market in teeming Wanchai District on the island.

The wounded included four children, four men shoppers and two members of a police demolition team lured by a fake bomb call into position for the attack from a nearby tenement roof.

Two other rooftop bombing attacks injured eight more in Wanchai, at the entrance to a government clinic and in front of a post office.

Another bomb trap wounded a police inspector and a police constable on the main road between Kai Tak airport and the plush tourist hotels in downtown Kowloon.

One bomb, placed on a road alongside the airport runway, halted road traffic to and from the airport but no flights were affected. Military experts defused the bomb.

More than 150 reports of real and false bombs were received Friday.

A policeman was killed when Chinese terrorists hurled bombs at him as he investigated a dummy bomb, and an 18-year-old Chinese youth was fatally injured by a bomb thrown at a police near him.

Authorities offered $17,500 in rewards for information leading to the arrest of the killers.

The deaths brought to 41 the number killed since May 11, when local Communists began inciting riots, labor strife and terrorism in a campaign to weaken British authority over the colony on Red China's southern border.

Following a period of relative quiet, terrorists began planting bombs on a large scale Wednesday after police shot and killed a Chinese man in a crowd watching illegal Communist fireworks last Sunday. Communist China's national day. The colony has had an average of 30 bomb reports a day since then.

U.N. Assembly Now on Agenda

Talks on Mid-East Stalemate Put Off

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly gets down to the business on its docket next week after sidetracking discussion of the Middle East and winding up its 17-day policy debate with a bitter attack by Cuba on the United States.

The United States denounced the Cuban blast as "distorted, violent and spurious."

The assembly agreed to postpone its debate on the Middle East stalemate until Oct. 25 at least to see what comes from U.S.-Soviet negotiations to place the issue before the Security Council.

The Middle East debate had been scheduled to start Monday, but it was generally felt that it should be delayed while there was a chance that the council could take meaningful measures.

The assembly's main political committee gets down to work Monday with outer space the first item on its docket.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa delivered his government's policy statement Friday in a 75-minute speech devoted almost entirely to attacking U.S. policy.

He accused the United States of exploiting Latin America with all the powerful means—both economic and military—at its disposal.

"It is against this unbearable state of affairs that the peoples of Latin America must survive," Roa declared. "It is not the Cuban revolutionary movement which starts revolutions in Latin America, it is exploitation by the Yankee imperialists."

Roa said American casualties in Vietnam were due to "the heroic resistance" of "the Viet Cong and Communist North Vietnam."

"It is not the United Nations that must find a solution to the Vietnamese war," he continued. "The Vietnamese people themselves will do so, as they have routed the imperialists."

Replying for the U.S. delegation, Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., called the Cuban's remarks "false and inflammatory."

"Hatred of the United States is obviously the distorting lens through which he views the affairs of the entire world, whether the subject be Vietnam, the Middle East or any other section," Fountain declared.

"I leave it to the other delegations to decide whether the picture the representative of Cuba has drawn is fact or fantasy."

25 Corpsmen Die in Fierce Ground Battles

SAIGON (AP) — The battered U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien was hit by a mistaken bombing from an American plane late Friday, killing two Marines and wounding 21, the U.S. command in Saigon disclosed.

The report of the mistaken bombing came after a fierce three-hour fight early Saturday between Marines and attacking North Vietnamese troops a mile below Con Thien, which is just south of the demilitarized zone.

A spokesman said a Marine Corps aircraft "making a bomb run Friday evening in support of ground forces at Con Thien had two 500-pound bombs impact on the perimeter of the ground unit."

The spokesman said an investigation is under way.

Marine infantrymen, artillery and planes beat off an attempt by 500 Hanoi regulars to storm the perimeter of a leatherneck battalion below Con Thien. The war just below the DMZ had mounted furiously.

After nearly three weeks of only minor attacks, the Communists around the DMZ battered the outpost of Con Thien Friday with almost 400 artillery, rocket, mortar and recoilless rifle shells.

Early today, after another 130-round mortar barrage, the North Vietnamese attacked a Marine battalion's position south of Con Thien, using tear gas and advancing behind smoke grenades.

For the next three hours the battle raged a mile below Con Thien, with American flareships overhead to light the battlefield and spray the Communist jump-off points with fiery Gatling gun rounds.

It is rare for the North Vietnamese to use tear gas or smoke grenades, and this was evidently a well equipped unit. At dawn it broke off the fight and slipped off to the southwest, with the Marines trying to get in ahead of it.

Initial battle reports did not give enemy losses. The U.S. Command said 25 Marines were killed, and 20 wounded were taken out by helicopter, with others who were lightly wounded remaining at their posts.

In the Red shellfire Friday against Con Thien, three Marines were killed and 15 were wounded.

The Red attack emphasized that the recent slackening in Communist pressure on the Marines was only a temporary respite and not an end to the threat to the forward post guarding the most direct route to South

Topless Dancer Wins Round in Courtroom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A topless go-go dancer with the unlikely but real name of Queen Victoria Vanilla Williams bounced one of Miami's last vestiges of the Victorian age into the history books Friday.

In a two-word ruling, Criminal Court Judge Carling Stedman upheld Miss Williams' plea that public exposure of the breasts need not always be indecent.

"Not guilty," the judge said and dismissed a disorderly conduct charge against the shapely Virgin Islands native. Stedman's ruling came after he personally inspected a local topless nightspot to see if the dancers offended public decency.

LBJ Aide's Record under Scrutiny

WASHINGTON (AP) — Walt W. Rostow, special assistant to President Johnson, denies assertion he was three times rejected for security clearance during President Dwight D. Eisenhower's administration.

U.S. Bombers Strike Con Thien by Mistake

PROSECUTION TESTIMONY — Delmar Dennis, 27, testified at trial of 18 men in Meridian, Miss., in the murder of three civil rights workers in 1964 that his chapter of the White Knights of the Ku Klux Klan was about to vote on whether to kill civil rights worker Michael Schwerner when Klan organizer Edgar R. MERIDIAN, Miss. (AP) — The defense is calling the bulk of its witnesses today in an attempt to punch holes in the Justice Department's case against 18 white men charged with conspiracy in the deaths of three civil rights workers.

U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox ordered a rare Saturday session to expedite the trial.

Reds Increase Terror Raids In Hong Kong

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist bombs wounded four more police and 16 civilians today, including four small children, after a night of terror in which two persons were killed and 33 wounded.

Anti-British terrorists planted more than 40 bombs throughout Hong Kong Island and across the harbor channel in Kowloon today.

They hurled two or three bombs into a crowd at the entrance of a Chinese fish and vegetable market in teeming Wanchai District on the island.

The wounded included four children, four men shoppers and two members of a police demolition team lured by a fake bomb call into position for the attack from a nearby tenement roof.

Two other rooftop bombing attacks injured eight more in Wanchai, at the entrance to a government clinic and in front of a post office.

Another bomb trap wounded a police inspector and a police constable on the main road between Kai Tak airport and the plush tourist hotels in downtown Kowloon.

One bomb, placed on a road alongside the airport runway, halted road traffic to and from the airport but no flights were affected. Military experts defused the bomb.

More than 190 reports of real and false bombs were received Friday.

A policeman was killed when Chinese terrorists hurled bombs at him as he investigated a dummy bomb, and an 18-year-old Chinese youth was fatally injured by a bomb thrown at police near him.

Authorities offered $17,500 in rewards for information leading to the arrest of the killers.

The deaths brought to 41 the number killed since May 11, when local Communists began inciting riots, labor strife and terrorism in a campaign to weaken British authority over the colony on Red China's southern border.

Following a period of relative quiet, terrorists began planting bombs on a large scale Wednesday after police shot and killed a Chinese man in a crowd watching illegal Communist fireworks last Sunday, Communist China's national day. The colony has had an average of 50 bomb reports a day since then.

25 Corpsmen Die in Fierce Ground Battles

SAIGON (AP) — The battered U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien was hit by a mistaken bombing from an American plane late Friday, killing two Marines and wounding 21, the U.S. command in Saigon disclosed.

The report of the mistaken bombing came after a fierce three-hour fight early Saturday between Marines and attacking North Vietnamese troops a mile below Con Thien, which is just south of the demilitarized zone.

A spokesman said a Marine Corps aircraft "making a bomb run Friday evening in support of ground forces at Con Thien had two 500-pound bombs impact on the perimeter of the ground unit."

The spokesman said an investigation is under way.

Marine infantrymen, artillery and planes beat off an attempt by 500 Hanoi regulars to storm the perimeter of a leatherneck battalion below Con Thien. The war just below the DMZ had mounted furiously.

After nearly three weeks of only minor attacks, the Communists around the DMZ battered the outpost of Con Thien Friday with almost 400 artillery, rocket, mortar and recoilless rifle shells.

Early today, after another 130-round mortar barrage, the North Vietnamese attacked a Marine battalion's position south of Con Thien, using tear gas and advancing behind smoke grenades.

For the next three hours the battle raged a mile below Con Thien, with American flareships overhead to light the battlefield and spray the Communist jump-off points with fiery Galling gun rounds.

It is rare for the North Vietnamese to use tear gas or smoke grenades, and this was evidently a well equipped unit. At dawn it broke off the fight and slipped off to the southwest, with the Marines trying to get in ahead of it.

Initial battle reports did not give enemy losses. The U.S. Command said 25 Marines were killed, and 20 wounded were taken out by helicopter, with others who were lightly wounded remaining at their posts.

In the Red shellfire Friday against Con Thien, three Marines were killed and 15 were wounded.

The Red attack emphasized that the recent slackening in Communist pressure on the Marines was only a temporary respite and not an end to the threat to the forward post guarding the most direct route to South

Topless Dancer Wins Round in Courtroom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A topless gogo dancer with the unlikely but real name of Queen Victoria Vanilla Williams bounced one of Miami's last vestiges of the Victorian age into the history books Friday.

In a two-word ruling, Criminal Court Judge Carling Stedman upheld Miss Williams' plea that public exposure of the breasts need not always be indecent.

"Not guilty," the judge said and dismissed a disorderly conduct charge against the shapely Virgin Islands native. Stedman's ruling came after he personally inspected a local topless nightspot to see if the dancers offended public decency.

U.N. Assembly Now on Agenda

Talks on Mid-East Stalemate Put Off

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly gets down to the business on its docket next week after sidetracking discussion of the Middle East and winding up its 17-day policy debate with a bitter attack by Cuba on the United States.

The United States denounced the Cuban blast as "distorted, violent and spurious."

The assembly agreed to postpone its debate on the Middle East stalemate until Oct. 25 at least to see what comes from U.S.-Soviet negotiations to place the issue before the Security Council.

The Middle East debate had been scheduled to start Monday, but it was generally felt that it should be delayed while there was a chance that the council could take meaningful measures.

The assembly's main political committee gets down to work Monday with outer space the first item on its docket.

Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa delivered his government's policy statement Friday in a 75-minute speech devoted almost entirely to attacking U.S. policy.

He accused the United States of exploiting Latin America with all the powerful means—both economic and military—at its disposal.

"It is against this unbearable state of affairs that the peoples of Latin America must survive," Roa declared. "It is not the Cuban revolutionary movement which starts revolutions in Latin America, it is exploitation by the Yankee imperialists."

Roa said American casualties in Vietnam were due to "the heroic resistance" of "the Viet Cong and Communist North Vietnam."

"It is not the United Nations that must find a solution to the Vietnamese war," he continued. "The Vietnamese people themselves will do so, as they have routed the imperialists."

Replying for the U.S. delegation, Rep. L.H. Fountain, D-N.C., called the Cuban's remarks "false and inflammatory."

"Hatred of the United States is obviously the distorting lens through which he views the affairs of the entire world, whether the subject be Vietnam, the Middle East or any other section," Fountain declared.

"I leave it to the other delegations to decide whether the picture the representative of Cuba has drawn is fact or fantasy."

An accidental spill on the patio or the kitchen floor is easier to remove if you wipe or wash it away promptly. Stains that dry and set are hard to remove.

On patio or porch fresh stains often can be flushed away with a hose. If there's grease in the spill, pour a liquid detergent, full strength, and then flush it away with hot or cold water from a hose or bucket. Stubborn grease stains may require a brush or broom.

Indoors, sponge up spills and then wash as required. But indoor or out don't delay, for spills often are slippery and can cause accidents, caution safety specialists of USDA's Federal Extension Service.

Immediate treatment is a key to easier stain removal, say clothing specialists with USDA and the Cooperative Extension Service at the University of Minnesota.

This rule applies to all fabrics, but since grease and water stains are harder to remove from some synthetics and treated cottons, fast action with them is especially important.

Non-greasy stains, such as black coffee, tea, fruit juices, and carbonated drinks usually are no problem if they are flushed out with cold water before they dry. Use enough water to flush out the stain, and then use dry towels or tissue to blot up water. Coffee with cream may require a second treatment, with a dry cleaning solution to remove grease. For all grease stains, place the stained side of garment against a blotter of toweling. Apply cleaning solvent with a cloth and work from the under side of garment. Caution: Fumes from grease solvents are toxic and some are flammable. Use them only with adequate ventilation and away from open flames.

If it is impossible to flush out stains immediately, then as soon as possible soak color-fast washables in cold water 20 to 30 minutes and check the stain removal. Some stains require overnight soaking. After soaking, rub detergent into the stain, wash the garment and inspect. If necessary, apply detergent again, rub lightly as you wash, and rinse well.

Usually it's advisable to soak out as much stain as possible because hot water, or the heat of ironing can set stains so bleaching is necessary.

Some treated fabrics turn yellow if chlorine bleached. Powdered peroxide bleaches usually are suggested for permanent press and other treated fabrics. Follow label directions.

Peroxide bleaches include sodium perborate and potassium monopersulfate bleaches. It's wise to test all fabrics for color-fastness before using any bleach.

A 1/2 pound whole leg—drumstick and thigh—from a large turkey is enough for 6 good servings and some smaller pieces for other uses. Turkey legs often frozen in pairs, are available in most market areas but not necessarily in every market. They are a thrifty choice for a good, high quality protein food.

Braising is an excellent way to cook turkey legs and drumsticks for a tender product. It's easier to get deep browning of the legs if they are defrosted, but they may be cooked from the frozen state, either braised or stewed.

Defrosted turkey legs take about 2 1/2 hours to braise; if cooked without defrosting, allow a little more time.

Rub flour seasoned with salt and pepper into the skin and brown the legs in hot fat. Add a little water cover and cook over low heat on top of the range or in the oven at 325 degrees F. until the joint moves easily. Cook 2 1/2 to 3 hours, for frozen or thawed legs.

Turkey leg may be sliced and served hot or cold, cut into chunks and used in salads, casseroles and stews.

Fall Care of Ewes Important For More Lambs Next Spring

In sheep flocks where spring (April) lambs are desired, it is time to drench, flush, and breed ewes, reports R. H. Grimshaw, Extension Sheep Specialist, The Ohio State University.

Ewes should be drenched three weeks before breeding, that is around Oct. 20, with Phenothiazine or Cu Nic. When using Phenothiazine powder, drench grade, on the farm, use one pound of the powder to 1 1/2 pints of water and stir thoroughly while treatments are given. Drench one ounce Phenothiazine to lambs under 50 pounds, two ounces for sheep over 50 pounds, or three ounces for extremely large sheep. Phenothiazine powder can be purchased from leading commercial dealers in Ohio.

Sometimes Phenothiazine is bought as a drench with the Phenothiazine in suspension or as a drench that also includes arsenate of lead in the proper concentration for tape-worm control. Drenching may be done with a two-ounce metal dosing syringe that has the long or six-inch stand astride the sheep and insert the dose pipe into the mouth, gently pushing it clear up to the bottom of the syringe. Then firmly clamp the jaws and nose shut with one hand and discharge the syringe as fast as possible.

When done carefully this causes no injury nor loss of medicine. Unlike other drenches, sheep should not be kept from either feed or water when using Phenothiazine as a treatment. Keep sheep off clean pasture for at least 24 hours after drenching to reduce infestation due to their droppings. Time and labor may be saved by confining sheep in a narrow chute or a small pen when drenching is being done. Don't overdo sheep.

After drenching, the ewes should be flushed. Flushing means to let ewes graze a better pasture such as a mixed legume and grass meadow. If suitable pasture is not available, feed ewes 1/2 to one pound of corn or oats or a mixture of the two. Good quality legume hay selected that exemplifies the 4-H's to the greatest extent. The boys award, Service Award, was won by Jim Evans, and the Heart Award, for the girl, was won by Nadine Hinton.

may be used, too, if pastures are poor and grain is not available.

Flushing helps ewes to gain weight in order to produce multiple egg cells or ova 10 days to three weeks before they are exposed to the rams. It is not advisable, however, to flush ewes already in high condition as this may retard conception or may increase the number of ewes not settling to the first service.

If planning for lambs in March, April, and early May, rams should be put in with ewes three weeks after drenching. Lambs are usually born about 147 days after the ewe has conceived.

The ram for breeding should be well selected. Choose a purebred ram with superior meat-type characteristics. Such rams should be fed, depending on condition, at least one to 1 1/2 pounds per day of a mixture of three pounds corn, three pounds oats and one pound of a high protein supplement ten days before breeding begins. Don't forget to provide plenty of shade, water and salt.

Ewes should be bred when they are 18 months old and the ram not less than 12 months, says Grimshaw. For a yearling ram, 35 ewes is enough while a ram of 2 to 5 years may be run with 50 ewes for pasture breeding. Turn rams with ewes from 6 p. m. to 7:30 a. m. The rams should serve ewes alternately so that they can be resting. The ram should be removed from the ewe flock after the breeding season.

By following such a program, sheep producers have a good chance for timing of breeding for maximum fertility. This can result in more twins among late lambs born next spring.

For further information, ask your county agent for a copy of Extension Bulletin 68, "Sheep Raising in Ohio".

Costly Corn Harvesting Losses Can Be Remedied

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Corn harvesting losses from corn combines and corn pickers can be severe if care isn't taken to adjust and operate the machines for minimum loss. These expensive losses have been found to range from 0.3 to 14 bushels per acre for corn pickers and from 2.2 to 29.4 bushels per acre for corn combines. This range of losses has been found during field checks of farmer-operated machines over a three-year period by agricultural engineers from The Ohio State University and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

The checks were made throughout Ohio during the last three harvest seasons, under relatively good field conditions. Late in the season and after storms, losses were much higher. An ear loss of 48 bushels per acre was measured last January 13 from a four-row corn head in a field that was 68 per cent lodged.

The greatest loss from corn pickers was the shelled corn coming from snapping rollers, the engineers found. This loss averaged nearly 2.8 bushels per acre.

The greatest loss from corn combines was "whole ears of corn" missed by the gathering unit of the machine. This loss averaged 3.2 bushels per acre under relatively good conditions.

OTHER combining losses can occur at the cylinder, during separation, or as invisible losses. Invisible losses include the tips of kernels left in the cobs when shelling at high moisture contents.

Adjustments and operating practices which held to keep losses low have been outlined as follows:

Keep machines in good repair with all parts in place and functioning. Replace front snapping roll bearings on pickers if they have more than 1-16" play.

Run combine engine at proper "governed" speed and pickers at proper "P.T.O." speed. Use a forward speed right at three M.P.H.

Run snapping rolls closed tight on pickers Adjust control linkage if necessary.

CLOSE stripper plates or snapping bars only enough to prevent ears from passing through.

Chain flights over stripper plates should extend beyond edge of plates by 1/4 inch.

Ears should be snapped near upper 1-3 of snapping roll. On combines, this is regulated by the aggressiveness of the snapping rolls; on pickers, by forward speed.

Drive accurately on paired rows spaced to match your harvesting machine.

Gathering snouts should float on the ground and gathering chains should be just above the ground. (Be alert for stones.)

Start harvesting early — about 30 per cent moisture for pickers and 28 per cent moisture for combines.

STUDY operators manual and make basic settings as specified for cylinder and shoe adjustment.

Measure losses and make corrective machine adjustments whenever crop conditions change.

Strive to match field capacity of harvesting equipment to acres of corn produced and rain free days available for harvesting.

Select hybrid corn varieties that will stand under your farming conditions.

A step by step procedure for measuring corn harvesting losses has been developed by Ohio Extension Agricultural Engineers. This information is on a four-by six-inch card which may be obtained from your county Extension office. Also available is a 15-minute, color, sound, 16-mm motion picture film showing ing specifically how to measure corn harvesting losses. The title of the film is "How to Prevent Corn Harvest Losses" and it's available from the Extension Film Library, OSU, 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus.

If planning for lambs in March, April, and early May, rams should be put in with ewes three weeks after drenching. Lambs are usually born about 147 days after the ewe has conceived.

The ram for breeding should be well selected. Choose a purebred ram with superior meat-type characteristics. Such rams should be fed, depending on condition, at least one to 1 1/2 pounds per day of a mixture of three pounds corn, three pounds oats and one pound of a high protein supplement ten days before breeding begins. Don't forget to provide plenty of shade, water and salt.

Ewes should be bred when they are 18 months old and the ram not less than 12 months, says Grimshaw. For a yearling ram, 35 ewes is enough while a ram of 2 to 5 years may be run with 50 ewes for pasture breeding. Turn rams with ewes from 6 p. m. to 7:30 a. m. The rams should serve ewes alternately so that they can be resting. The ram should be removed from the ewe flock after the breeding season.

By following such a program, sheep producers have a good chance for timing of breeding for maximum fertility. This can result in more twins among late lambs born next spring.

For further information, ask your county agent for a copy of Extension Bulletin 68, "Sheep Raising in Ohio."

Costly Corn Harvesting Losses Can Be Remedied

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent, Agriculture

Corn harvesting losses from corn combines and corn pickers can be severe if care isn't taken to adjust and operate the machines for minimum loss. These expensive losses have been found to range from 0.3 to 14 bushels per acre for corn pickers and from 2.2 to 29.4 bushels per acre for corn combines. This range of losses has been found during field checks of farmer-operated machines over a three-year period by agricultural engineers from The Ohio State University and the Ohio Agricultural Research and Development Center.

The checks were made throughout Ohio during the last three harvest seasons, under relatively good field conditions. Late in the season and after storms, losses were much higher. An ear loss of 48 bushels per acre was measured last January 13 from a four-row corn head in a field that was 68 per cent lodged.

The greatest loss from corn pickers was the shelled corn coming from snapping rollers, the engineers found. This loss averaged nearly 2.8 bushels per acre.

The greatest loss from corn combines was "whole ears of corn" missed by the gathering unit of the machine. This loss averaged 3.2 bushels per acre under relatively good conditions.

OTHER combining losses can occur at the cylinder, during separation, or as invisible losses. Invisible losses include the tips of kernels left in the cobs when shelling at high moisture contents.

Adjustments and operating practices which held to keep losses low have been outlined as follows:

Keep machines in good repair with all parts in place and functioning. Replace worn snapping roll bearings on pickers if they have more than 1-16" play.

Run combine engine at proper "governed" speed and pickers at proper "P.T.O." speed. Use a forward speed right at three M.P.H.

Run snapping rolls closed tight on pickers Adjust control linkage if necessary.

CLOSE stripper plates or snapping bars only enough to prevent ears from passing through.

Chain flights over stripper plates should extend beyond edge of plates by 1/4 inch.

Ears should be snapped near upper 1-3 of snapping roll. On combines, this is regulated by the aggressiveness of the snapping rolls; on pickers, by forward speed.

Drive accurately on paired rows spaced to match your harvesting machine.

Gathering snouts should float on the ground and gathering chains should be just above the ground. (Be alert for stones.)

Start harvesting early—about 30 per cent moisture for pickers and 28 per cent moisture for combines.

STUDY operators manual and make basic settings as specified for cylinder and shoe adjustment.

Measure losses and make corrective machine adjustments whenever crop conditions change.

Strive to match field capacity of harvesting equipment to acres of corn produced and rain free days available for harvesting.

Select hybrid corn varieties that will stand under your farming conditions.

A step by step procedure for measuring corn harvesting losses has been developed by Ohio Extension Agricultural Engineers. This information is on a four-by six-inch card which may be obtained from your county Extension office. Also available is a 15-minute, color, sound, 16-mm motion picture film showing ing specifically how to measure corn harvesting losses. The title of the film is "How to Prevent Corn Harvest Losses" and it's available from the Extension Film Library, OSU, 2120 Fyffe Road, Columbus.

Fire Prevention Week

Although Oct. 8-14 is proclaimed Fire Prevention Week, we should keep in mind that such proclamations are merely reminders. To be safe, we should make every week fire prevention week.

The first thing we should remember when a fire breaks out is to spread the alarm. Second, be sure everyone gets out. Third call the fire department and give the exact location of the fire. Fourth, if the fire is small, return and fight it. Make sure you leave yourself an escape path, says Roger Miller, Extension Specialist in Emergency Preparedness at The Ohio State University.

A fire needs three things: fuel, heat and air, thus forming a triangle. Fuel is any material which will burn. Heat may be supplied by other means such as electricity, lightning, concentration of heat from the sun, or chemical or biological reactions (spontaneous combustion). There must be enough heat to raise the temperature of the fuel to its kindling temperature. Then, a fire must have oxygen, and air supplies the oxygen to support combustion. So, if we remove any one of these, we can extinguish the fire.

There are three classes of fires. Class A fires are wood, trash, paper and cloth. Use water (pressure, pump, all - purpose, or soda-acid extinguisher, or a garden hose).

Class B fires are flammable liquids like gasoline, turpentine, natural oils, animal fats, and some paints. CO<sub>2</sub>, foam, or dry chemicals are good to use here. You can also use an all-purpose extinguisher.

Class C fires involve electricity. Shut off the power then use a CO<sub>2</sub>, dry chemical, or all-purpose extinguisher. Never use water unless you are positive the power is off.

Remember the fire triangle and decide which method of extinguishing the fire is best. Take precautions for personal safety, then proceed.

Home Ec Conference Is Slated

If you're a home economist trying to keep up with the flood of new knowledge and products, plan to attend the 21st annual conference for professional home economists on Saturday, Oct. 21, at The Ohio State University.

All home economists (regardless of college affiliation) and their guests are invited to attend this continuing education conference beginning at 8:45 a.m. in Campbell Hall, says Mrs. Naurine Higgins, Assistant Extension Director, Home Economics, OSU. The theme for this year's one day program sponsored by The Ohio State University School of Home Economics and its Alumni Association is "What's New in Food, Clothing, and Shelter?"

The morning program in Campbell Hall auditorium includes a talk by Dr. Inez Prudent on "Trends in the Food World"; an illustrated talk on "Influences of the Past on Today's Furniture" by Dr. Robbie Blakemore; and a speech on textiles by Miss Mary Millican, Associate Professor, illustrated with a collection of European textiles.

After a luncheon in the Ohio Union Ballroom, Mrs. Ann Bardwell, Extension Specialist, Management and Family Development, will speak on "Realities of Family Life in Ohio's Appalachia" and Miss Wanda Montgomery, former Full -

Townships To Decide Rural Zoning Nov. 7

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Extension Agent,
Agriculture

Madison, Walnut, Harrison, Scioto, and Circleville townships have already approved township zoning. The other ten county townships will be voting on this issue this Nov. 7.

"Zoning is a tool local people can use in guiding the future of their community," says John B. Mitchell, Extension Specialist, Rural Sociology, The Ohio State University. Haphazard growth of houses, factories, and various types of businesses in the same area can be prevented by long-range planning and zoning. A community's "growing pains" are reduced when citizens wisely direct the use of community resources.

From 1950 to 1966 there was a 29 per cent increase in the average number of people per square mile in Ohio. The need for the most efficient use of a township or a county's land resources grows right along with Ohio's ever-increasing population. So far, in past years, over 450 townships in 58 Ohio Counties have approved rural zoning resolutions. It started in 1947 when the state legislature passed legislation allowing townships and counties to proceed with rural zoning.

A major objective of rural zoning is to put land to the use for which it is best suited. Other objectives are protection of property values, promotion of public health, safety, and orderly development of the community. Zoning divides a township or county into districts for the purpose of establishing the type of land use, density of population, and height and bulk of buildings within each zone. A zoning land use map classifies land into broad types of uses such as agricultural, residential, commercial, and industrial.

If you're voting on zoning resolution this fall, you had better look it over to be sure it's a good one. Zoning should be tailored to fit the area it is proposed for instead of clipping and pasting together a resolution from the resolutions of surrounding areas. "Careful consideration should be given to special problems such as protection of good farm land, prevention of premature subdividing, provision of special districts for flood plains, steep slopes, swampy areas, or unusual soil conditions," says Mitchell.

Factual information about what zoning will and will not do is important for people who will be voting on resolutions. Here are answers to frequently asked questions about rural zoning:

Q. "I've heard that the fellow across the road is going to sell part of his farm for a junked car business. We don't have zoning but I don't want to look at something like that every day."

A. Without zoning you have one of three choices: outbid the car dealer and buy the land, learn to live with a junky view, or sell your farm.

Q. "Will zoning get rid of a dump in our township?"

A. No, zoning or ordinances have no effect on existing businesses or other land uses. Zoning applies to the future use of land.

Q. "If we have rural zoning, would I have to get a zoning certificate before building a corn crib?"

A. No, Section 519.21 of the zoning law specifically states: Use of land or buildings for agricultural purposes not affected.

A zoning certificate is required, however, for homes and commercial buildings. A certificate is issued after plans for the building show it meets the requirements of the zoning regulations.

Q. "Can I build my own home if our township has rural zoning?"

A. Yes, you can. You will have to have a building plan that meets the minimum requirements of the zoning ordinances. The ordinances specify the minimum number of square feet of living space in the house, height of the building, minimum size of the lot, and distance the house must be set back from the road. This, however, is for your own good.

Q. "Once you have zoning do you have it forever?"

A. No, if people are dissatisfied with rural zoning they can vote it out. This hasn't happened very often; only a few townships have repealed their zoning. However, it is very common for voters to amend or change some parts of their zoning.

Q. "Will zoning increase my taxes?"

A. It is very unlikely this will happen. Zoning is usually self-supporting from fees paid for inspections. The only person paid for zoning services is the inspector, and in rural areas this would be a part-time job. Members of the zoning commission and board of appeals serve without pay.

Q. "Do farmers and other rural residents have much to say about this zoning?"

A. The law specifies that rural residents are responsible for preparation of the resolutions, only rural residents can vote on the resolutions, and the five members of a board of appeals must reside in the unincorporated territory covered by the zoning. County commissioners or township trustees are responsible for the enforcement of rural zoning.

The five members of a zoning commission charged with drawing up resolutions must reside in the unincorporated area considering zoning. The commission may employ planning consultants or other personnel if funds are granted for this purpose by county commissioners or township trustees. The trustees make this decision if township zoning resolution are being prepared.

When zoning resolutions appear on the ballot, residents of the unincorporated portion of a township decide whether they will approve or reject rural zoning. Residents of incorporated villages cannot vote on this issue. When zoning on a county-wide basis is submitted to the voters, the decision of rural residents in each township determines whether their township approves or disapproves the resolutions. A simple majority is all that is needed to determine the matter.

Chapter Closed

The death of Prince Youssoupoff, assassin of the "Mad Monk," Rasputin, closes one of the many dark and violent chapters of Russian history. The prince was the last of a band of noblemen who saw the gathering storm of revolution and attempted to halt with violent and belated action.

Czarism in the person of the ineffectual Nicholas II, was in December

1916 reeling from the onslaughts of the German army and facing revolt at home. The noblemen were convinced that Rasputin's mystic hold over the German-born czarina had been used to supply military secrets to the Germans.

The prince and his cohorts killed Rasputin, but the revolution they dreaded was not to be averted.

Strange Misnomer

The cult of the verbal fetish and the strange misnomer seems, like the poor, to be with us always. One of the latest examples is the demilitarized zone (DMZ for short) in Vietnam which so far belies its name as to beg, above the thunder of guns and bombs, for a more appropriate title.

In the 1954 Geneva agreement, which brought a brief and fragile peace to Vietnam, the band of territory which divided the forces of the recent contestants was called "the demilitarized zone."

The buffer area has been violated innumerable times by the North Vietnamese. Far from being a peaceful area, the DMZ and its immediate environs see the most violent action.

Thousands of tons of bombs are dropped, thousands of rounds of artillery shells are fired. Yet it remains "the demilitarized zone."

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

A new form of screw made out of animal bone is being used for the repair of fractures in humans. At the Brooklyn Veterans Administration Hospital, Dr. Allan G. Smith has been experimenting with an ingenious screw to replace the metal ones that are now being used.

When metal bars, or screws, are used they sometimes cause infection, inflammation and pain in fractures that do not heal by themselves. The new bone screws, when placed in the fracture, do not cause these reactions.

The early report of this exciting idea seems to hold great promise. As always before such experimental work is released for human fractures it is carefully surveyed by the United States Food and Drug Administration. They are indeed our protectors, and insure that new methods and new drugs will be completely safe for human relief before they sanction it.

It is generally accepted that there is a distinct relationship between coronary heart disease and high levels of cholesterol in the blood. It is true that some doctors do not accept it completely, but even they believe that some relationship does exist in sufficient amount to warrant further study.

In our modern civilization, in privileged lands, high cholesterol in foods is very common. Scientists have been seeking to find a drug that will lower the cholesterol level in blood even when the diet is high in animal fats.

Dr. Solomon Fisch, of the New York College of Medicine, has been using two new drugs that definitely reduce cholesterol levels and help to speed its excretion from the body. A number of other investigators at other universities are testing these and similar drugs. It is hoped that soon they will be available for general use.

When Adam first courageously bit into an apple he may have started a long chain of psychoneurotic patterns in humans. It was not, however, until man gave up his vegetarian habits and substituted meat products that arteriosclerosis began to appear in modern man.

The World Today

By EDMOND LEBRETON (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Congress and the administration bicker about whether and where the budget can be cut, one plump and prominent target has been mentioned more and more often: the $17 billion programmed spending for research and development.

Research appropriations are scattered among more than a dozen departmental budgets, but a compilation pulled together on order for congressional use clearly identifies the departments and agencies that spend most of the money:

Defense, $7.57 billion; National Aeronautics and Space Administration, $5.3 billion; Atomic Energy Commission, $1.64 billion; Health, Education and Welfare Department, $1.18 billion. Next behind these giants is the new Transportation Department with $321 million, of which $188 million is for development of the supersonic transport.

All these figures relate, not to appropriations, but to the amounts the departments intend to spend during the fiscal year that began last July 1. Appropriations always relate largely to future spending.

The new appropriations asked this year for research and development total $17.99 billion. But the government proposes to use only $9.30 billion of the new authority during the year; the rest of the $17.25 billion programmed spending for this year would come from past appropriations—a circumstance not lost on economy-minded congressmen.

Some of these contend government research has been extended beyond all measure of practicality. "They've even got a project for research on what ought to be researched," one snorted.

Others, conceding that practically all government-supported research is useful, nevertheless insist that when the country is running deep into the red, the test should be what research is immediately needed.

The huge defense research and development total includes work in everything from missile improvements to studies of temperature, salinity and biological content of water.

The space agency proposes to spend $358 billion on the manned space flight program, including the Apollo system for moon landings. Another $600 million would go for such programs as orbiting observatories. A substantial portion of the AEC's research and development is directly military and presumably would be politically hard to reduce—$265 million for nuclear weapons development and $256 million for testing such weapons underground.

Farther-out research includes a $94 million item for work with the space agency on an atomic space vehicle.

Perhaps of all the research programs the ones Congress would be most reluctant to cut are those of the National Institutes of Health on the various killing and disabling diseases. These run $874 million.

Much of the criticism of individual programs in Congress has been directed against those the National Science Foundation farms out to colleges and universities. These are largely for basic research, with little immediately obvious payoff. The 1968 spending plan calls for $154 million.

But any effort to cut these will meet with resistance reaching into most congressional districts—more than 400 institutions, some in every state, receive the grants.

According to Boyle

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN (For Hal Boyle)

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Grandmother's rules of housekeeping said Thursday is for marketing and Friday for dusting and sweeping. But many contemporary wives in the Great Plains and Southwest think both days are for "doing" the garage sales.

A garage sale is a kind of high-class bargain basement, organized by an individual woman or group of friends, where offerings range from sink stoppers to guinea pigs to maternity clothes, all used.

In the suburbs of Kansas City, the station wagon and sports car sets park before $30,000 ranches to examine the offerings of 35-cent baby dresses, 25-cent mixing bowls, $2-picture frames, and other odds and ends.

Mrs. James Hopewell of suburban Fairway, Kan., did the sales regularly for months before and after her first grandchild was born. She toted home a nursery full of barely used baby furniture, strollers, swings, toys and basic clothing.

Mrs. Bert Rosebrough of Prairie Village, Kan., another suburb, motioned to the well-furnished living room in her early American-style home.

"Everything in it," she said, "from the sofa to the maple sconces, came from garage sales." It was the same story in her 3-year-old son's room.

Anyone can hold a garage sale—providing she has the fortitude to let go of the things she and her family no longer use. The sales are announced by ads in neighborhood newspapers and signs planted on nearby streets.

On the big day, the garage is the spot for almost anything, except the family car. The sale is run like a store, not an auction. There is almost no bargaining. If it occurs, it is usually on a relatively expensive item.

Getting buyers is seldom a problem. Few can resist the enticement of pouring through another household's collection of trifles and trivia in hope that it will yield some surprise treasure.

Many women spend Thursday and Fridays, the traditional sale days, driving through the suburbs looking for sales. Sometimes they find several on one block.

Men make fun of their wives' garage sale habits. Once they attend one, though, they usually are bitten, too. The wife of a masculine garage sale fan said many of the articles sold in her sale came from her husband's foragings.

But the enthusiasm occasionally backfires.

One woman with garage sale fever made weekly expeditions and filled her basement with odds and ends of furniture, which she gradually refurnished for use in the house. But many objects never made it up the stairs. She finally took stock of her crowded basement, sighed and called the neighborhood paper.

"I want to run an ad for a garage sale," she said.

WASHINGTON REPORT

From

WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
6th District, Ohio

The President's charge last week that failure to increase taxes now will lead to more painful inflation is something like stating that failure to give a shot of morphine to a patient with an inflamed appendix will cause him more discomfort.

His statement, of course, is not groundless. But it doesn't go very far. He refuses to admit that the "hot" appendix must come out or the patient will be in serious trouble.

That is why "Doctor" Wilbur D. Mills, Chairman of the House Committee on Ways and Means has taken a stubborn and, for him, an unprecedented position in tebling the much-debated tax surcharge bill. The "shot of morphine" might ease the pain, but the pain is necessary to get the patient to the operating table! Furthermore, the pain-killer would do little to correct the malady which is a headlong rush toward even bigger spending, which, of course, means bigger Federal Government.

And this is what responsible law-makers in both parties are concerned with. Tax increases this year or even next year might reduce somewhat the pressure on the budget, but what about following years? Any good that might be accomplished now could be undone by what Mr. Mills calls "spending outbursts" at a later date unless realistic limits are set.

Another point that hasn't gotten through to many people is that a tax increase would not prevent inflation if the Government keeps on spending at projected rates. The same dollars would be spent anyway, not by those who earned them, but by people who did not earn them! So, unless the Administration sits down with Congress and works out feasible cuts in present spending, Mr. John Q. Public will get higher tax and more inflation too!

Where should the cuts be made? This crucial question deserves thoughtful attention. Some programs have clearly misfired. They have not and are not accomplishing their purpose. They should be discontinued. If a business kept on indefinitely pouring money into every advertising or merchandising program ever tried, the firm would quickly "go under." Yet that is precisely what the Administration would do.

After selective cuts of unproductive programs, sensible across-the-board cuts would be in order. But the important thing is to stop the present uncontrolled spending approach to government that threatens to "sick the ship of state" and rob us of all that we have worked and fought for.

Chapter Closed

The death of Prince Youssouppoff, assassin of the "Mad Monk," Rasputin, closes one of the many dark and violent chapters of Russian history. The prince was the last of a band of noblemen who saw the gathering storm of revolution and attempted to halt with violent and belated action.

Czarism in the person of the ineffectual Nicholas II, was in December

1916 reeling from the onslaughts of the German army and facing revolt at home. The noblemen were convinced that Rasputin's mystic hold over the German-born czarina had been used to supply military secrets to the Germans.

The prince and his cohorts killed Rasputin, but the revolution they dreaded was not to be averted.

Melodee Bartholomew Is Wed to Robert L. Bower

MRS. ROBERT L. BOWER

The altar of the Trinity Lutheran Church was adorned with vases of palms, white gladioli and pompons for the Oct. 1, wedding of Miss Melodee Bartholomew and Robert L. Bower.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartholomew, Route 1, Stoutsville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bower, Route 1, Kingston.

The Rev. Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring service. Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist, and Carl C. Leist, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by her father the bride wore a full length gown of antique white satin with an over-lay of re-embroidered Alencon lace designed with a molded empire bodice and A-line skirt. The full pleated back terminated into a sweep train. The long tapered sleeves came to points over her hands. She carried a white Bible a gift of the groom, topped with a bouquet of white pompon mums, centered with a cybidium orchid, and white satin streamers fell from the cascade bouquet.

The bride gown was made by Mrs. Eldon DeLong of Route 1, an aunt of the bridegroom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Aaron Harper of Amanda. She was attired in a floor length dress of shantastic and silk crepe with a bodice of Paris pink accented with elbow length sleeves and a detachable wateau panel which fell from a self bow at the shoulders. Her jet veil fell from a bow centered with a rosette matching the bodice of the gown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, pompons and pink rose buds. James Wellington of Columbus served as best man. Ushers were Hank Bower, brother of the bridegroom, Steven Bower, cousin of the groom, and Fred Mussler of Columbus.

Mrs. Bartholomew was attired in a maize sheath dress with an over-lay of lace with brown accessories. Mrs. Bower wore a turquoise jacket dress ensemble with matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white cybidium orchids.

A reception in the church parish house followed the ceremony. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped with white wedding bells. The cake and punch bowl were surrounded with pink carnations and white pompons.

Hostesses were Myra Dresbach, Mrs. Emmer Baldwin, Mrs. Dave Holenbach, Cheryl Severance and Janet DeLong, cousins of the groom. Mrs. Paul Anderson, Williamsport, presided at the guest book.

The going-away costume of the bride was a two piece gray and white knit suit and she wore the orchid corsage from the bridal bouquet.

The bride is a graduate of Amanda - Clearcreek High School and is employed at the Circleville Realty Co.

Mr. Bower graduated from Logan Elm High School, attended Ohio State University, Chillicothe branch of Ohio University and graduated from Andrew-Columbus Barber College and is presently associated with Larry's Barber Shop.

A rehearsal dinner was given in honor of the bride and groom the Saturday evening before the wedding, by Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bower at Pickaway Arms. Others attending were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Leist, The Rev. and Mrs. Carl Zehner, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downing, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon DeLong, Steve Bowers, Hank Bartholomew, Jim

Dear Abby: In an Emergency, Lady Is in Trouble

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister-in-law who just burns me up. She likes to watch television during the daytime, so she takes her telephone off the hook so nobody can bother her while she's watching television.

When I call her for hours at a time, and her line is "busy" I know her phone is off the hook.

What if someone from school tried to call to tell her one of her kids was sick? Or what if her husband got hurt at work? They wouldn't be able to get thru to her.

I get so mad at her I could scream. Is there some way I can make her understand she has no business doing this?

READY TO SCREAM

DEAR READY: If your sister-in-law prefers to be undisturbed, it's her privilege. If she's unavailable for emergency messages, it's HER problem.

DEAR ABBY: When my husband and I go shopping in the village, he is always greeted by many people I do not know. (Mostly women.) One woman will smile and say, "Hello, Joe." (My husband's name is Kenneth.) Then a woman will wave from an automobile and shout, "O, hello, there, Max!" Then I say to him, "What is this Joe and Max business?" And he says, "I must have a very common face."

What is your opinion?

MRS. K.J.F.

DEAR MRS. F.: I say your husband has a very common alibi.

DEAR ABBY: If you will print this letter, it may open the eyes of some of the hate-filled parents, who are doing their children irreparable harm.

My marriage was a mess. reconciliation, and a divorce suit that was called off, my irresponsible husband entered the army and stayed there for 10 years. At the end of that time, HE sued ME for divorce, but I was the one who got it.

We have two children, a boy and girl. Under the circumstances, they didn't know their father very well. But they could understand what was being said to them, and I never allowed anyone in my family to speak against their father. I let my children grow up and find out for themselves what kind of man he was.

Today my children are both grown. They cannot "love" their father, but they don't "hate" him. They call him long-distance at Christmas time, and when he comes to town for a visit, they have him (and his third wife) for a meal. My children are loyal to me, and I have always encouraged them to maintain a respectful relationship with their father.

I am sure my children are a sounder mental health because of this. When you teach a child to hate one of his parents, you do the child more harm than you do yourself good.

NO REGRETS
DEAR NO REGRETS: Thank you for your sensible letter. It comes at a time when so many parents have agreed to disagree. I hope it opens a few eyes of those who are still able to see.

Folksinger Joins War Objectors' Suit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Joan Baez, the folksinger who has waged a tug-of-war with the Internal Revenue Service over taxes spent for the military, joined 56 other conscientious objectors Thursday in a suit to get the money back. They sought more than $100,000.

Most of the plaintiffs are members of her Carmel Valley Institute for the Study of Nonviolence. The U.S. District Court suit contended that the Nuernberg war crimes trials for Nazi leaders set a precedent: Citizens of any country may not remain silent or acquiescent to violations of international law or commission of war crimes.

It alleged the United States has violated the United Nations' Charter pledge to settle disputes by peaceful means. For several years, Miss Baez has withheld from her income tax the portion she figured was for defense. The government retaliated by attaching her bank account.

Alcan Highway Story Related to Monday Club

The Alcan Highway was described by Miss Mary K. May at the latest meeting of the Monday Club.

The business session was conducted by the president, Mrs. John Beck.

The program chairman for the evening, Miss Eleanor Snyder, introduced Miss May and Miss Jeannie Gerhardt, guest folk singer.

Miss May described the Military Highway, the old name for the famed road, used as an emergency supply line to troops in the early 1940's. It linked airfields that protected North America from invasion in 1942. Canada allowed the United States to build this highway, 1,221 miles long, through their territory.

She then told how the building of the Alcan Highway began. Telegraph Creek was an important supply base while the highway was under construction. Supplies came up the Stikine River and were trucked across a treacherous road to Dease Lake and floated by barge down the Dease and Laird Rivers to construction camps. The White Ross and Yukon Railway, which connected Skagway, Alaska and Whitehouse, carried men, supplies and equipment to build the strategic highway. The railway was taken over by engineers of the U. S. Army.

The Army engineers cut the original road in a short span of eight months at a cost of millions of dollars. Their feat will go down as an epic in road building. Later the road was turned over to civilian contractors. It is expected the United States and Canada in the future will join in paving the entire highway from Edmonton to Anchorage.

Describing the Alaska Highway, Miss May told of its beauty, scenery and wild life. She told how the people along the highway, mostly Indians, make their living and of their hunting, trapping, fishing and some are employed in the Yukon mines. The women still like to smoke moosehide over slow fires and make the soft leather into beaded moccasins and jackets.

Miss May spoke of an experimental farm, west of Whitehorse, which demonstrates the variety of vegetables and fruits that will grow in north latitudes.

She said that people traveling the highway are in trailers, station wagons, and cars with self contained sleeping units because of the limited number of tourist facilities.

Women, according to Miss May, driving up the highway wouldn't be called typical travelers, but you don't need the daring of a Lowell Thomas to make the trip, although it could well be used as a proving ground for tires.

Most of the highway lies in Canada and is owned by the Canadian government and maintained by civilians under Canadian Army supervision.

When Dr. Carroll shows his slides at the next meeting of the organization, members will be able to see some of the beauty described by Miss May.

Boat To Enforce Ohio Liquor Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Liquor Department officials pronounce themselves "satisfied" with the performance of their new $20,000 enforcement boat to crack down on Lake Erie liquor violations.

Wade Knight, chief of enforcement operations, said Thursday the 32-foot steel cabin cruiser had taken agents on surprise visits that led to about eight citations on Ohio islands in Lake Erie.

Knight said the citations on the resort islands were primarily for sales to minors.

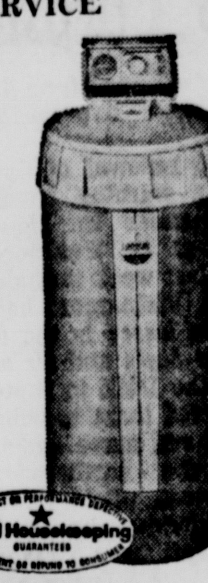

The boat, in operation only two months before the resort season ended, was also used to aid other boats in distress and to help in search operation after 19 skydivers accidentally plunged into the lake in August.

Knight said the craft will be put into full operation next summer and is expected to help cut illegal smuggling of liquor into Ohio from Canada.

The boat, manned by three agents in its first tryout this summer, is powered by twin 300-horsepower engines giving it a top speed of 45 miles per hour.

Melodee Bartholomew Is Wed to Robert L. Bower

MRS. ROBERT L. BOWER

The altar of the Trinity Lutheran Church was adorned with vases of palms, white gladioli and pompons for the Oct. 1 wedding of Miss Melodee Bartholomew and Robert L. Bower.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bartholomew, Route 1, Stoutsville, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Bower, Route 1, Kingston.

The Rev. Carl G. Zehner performed the double ring service. Mrs. Thomas Downing, organist, and Carl C. Leist, vocalist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Escorted to the altar by her father the bride wore a full length gown of antique white satin with an over-lay of re-embroidered Alencon lace designed with a molded empire bodice and A-line skirt. The full pleated back terminated into a sweep train. The long tapered sleeves came to points over her hands. She carried a white Bible a gift of the groom, topped with a bouquet of white pompon mums, centered with a cybidium orchid, and white satin streamers fell from the cascade bouquet.

The bride gown was made by Mrs. Eldon DeLong of Route 1, an aunt of the bridegroom.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Aaron Harper of Amanda. She was attired in a floor length dress of shantastic and silk crepe with a bodice of Paris pink accented with elbow length sleeves and a detachable wateau panel which fell from a self bow at the shoulders. Her jet veil fell from a bow centered with a rosette matching the bodice of the gown. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, pompons and pink rose buds.

fought admission of the statement into evidence, but Judge Cox ruled Barnette, who has since renounced the statement, gave it freely and voluntarily to an FBI agent at Springfield, La., in November 1964.

Cox ruled the names of only Jordan and Barnette could be used in the statement read to the jury by U.S. Atty. John Doar. The judge also instructed the jury that the statement could be used only against Horace Doyle Barnette.

Barnette's statement told of how a group of men intercepted the station wagon of the civil rights workers and took them to a lonely gravel road the night of June 21, 1964.

The censored statement, which said "blank" shot Schwerner and Goodman, read in part:

"Jim Jordan said, 'Save one for me.' He then got out of 'blank's' car and got Chaney out. I remember Chaney backing up, facing the road, and standing on the bank on the other side of the ditch and Jordan stood in the middle of the road and shot him."

James E. Jordan received money from the FBI for information. His case has been transferred to another federal court district, meaning he will have to plea no contest or guilty.

The 18 defendants are charged under an 1870 law fifth conspiring to violate the civil rights of the three slain workers. No state charges were ever filed. State officials have contended that the FBI refused to provide evidence necessary to prosecute.

25 Corpsmen

Vietnam's five northern provinces.

The renewal of fighting bore out a warning from the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland. He said last week that although the North Vietnamese had suffered severe losses in the furious artillery duels and air attacks across the DMZ in September, he expected them to build up their force and move again.

In the northern air war, American pilots flew 154 missions Friday through heavy anti-aircraft fire, barrages of surface-to-air missiles and harassment from red MIGs. The U.S. pilots probed deep into the North and bombed MIG fields at Kep, Hoa Lac and Kien An, all inside the heavily defended Hanoi-Haiphong defense zone.

The U.S. Command announced the loss of an Air Force F4 Phantom jet Friday, with the two-man crew missing. The plane went down in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam and was the 698th announced U.S. combat loss over the North.

Although there were broken clouds over much of the North, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots dropped through breaks in the weather to rake supply targets up and down the country and along the coast. The deepest targets were in the "northeast quadrant" where both SAMs and MIGs were encountered, but the MIGs skirted the American formations and wouldn't fight.

Damage assessment was meager because of the weather, but pilots reported that the main runway on the Kep airfield was badly cratered by a string of 3,000-pound bombs laid right down the center by F105 Thunderchiefs.

Other pilots worked over sections of the vital northeast rail line which carries most land-borne supplies from Red China to Hanoi. Navy pilots said they destroyed one building and set off a secondary explosion at a boat repair yard on the coast 44 miles northeast of Haiphong.

Marine Corps tactical jets continued raids on suspected Red gun positions just north of the DMZ, while Communist approach routes above Con Thien were hit Friday night by a heavy B52 raid.

Outside the DMZ area, Communist forces in South Vietnam largely limited themselves to harassing attacks.

2 Policemen Wounded at Holdup Scene

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Two gunmen fleeing a holdup at a Canton supermarket shot and wounded two policemen, one seriously, Friday night. A Canton woman also was wounded in the shootout.

The woman, Carolyn Johnson, 21, was standing by a checkout counter when she was struck in the shoulder. She was treated at a hospital and released.

The wounded patrolmen were Earl Scheneman, 36, and Nick Nitu, 26.

Scheneman, who was standing outside his cruiser, was struck four times in the lower abdomen. Nitu was hit in the back by one bullet.

Scheneman underwent surgery at Mercy Hospital, where he was reported in guarded condition. He also reportedly had wounds of the left arm and left leg. Nitu was reported in good condition.

R. A. Taylor, manager of the store—an A&P store on Mahoning Road—said one of the men entered the store and approached Mrs. Catherine Rutter, the head cashier.

She was ordered to get money from the cash registers in the store.

Police said one of the customers, realizing the store was being held up, left the store and telephoned police from another store.

The other man apparently stayed outside as a lookout, police said.

As two police cars pulled up, the lookout opened fire with what police said apparently was a .45-caliber submachine gun.

More than 21 slugs slammed into one police car and several cars in the parking lot also were hit, police said.

Police issued a statewide alert for the men. Officers found what they believed to be the getaway car several miles from the store between Canton and Louisville and launched a search in a nearby wooded area.

Bride Chases Groom—But Only One Time

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Magistrate Jeanette Johnson was about to perform the marriage ceremony when the would-be groom took a deep breath and rushed from her courthouse office.

But not for long.

His would-be bride ran after him, and the couple returned in a few minutes. The young girl was beaming and the boy was red-faced and nervous.

Magistrate Johnson started the ceremony again and all was fine until she reached the words "and forsaking all others and keep ye only unto her so long as ye both shall live?"

Suddenly, the boy shouted: "I won't."

He bolted out of the office and this time the bride didn't chase him.

Doctor Pops Bubble, Denies Flying Saucer Killed Horse

ALAMOSA, Colo. (AP)—Snippy the horse may have been done in by an infection and varmint of the prairie, but he certainly was not killed by a flying saucer, a Colorado State University scientist says.

Dr. Robert O. Adams of the university's college of veterinary medicine and biomedical sciences, examined the carcass and reported Friday there were natural, earthbound explanations for everything he found.

"I know it's going to pop the bubble, but the horse was not killed by a flying saucer," he said.

The flying saucer theory was advanced by Snippy's owner, Mrs. Berle Lewis, after the 3-year-old Appaloosa gelding's carcass was found on a remote prairie 20 miles northeast of here, with all flesh stripped from the neck and head.

Mrs. Lewis also reported finding exhaust-like marks in the area, a high level of radioactivity and no tracks around the horse.

Mrs. Lewis' view was shared by many residents of this sparsely populated San Luis Valley, where reported sightings of unidentified flying objects are common.

'Sub Taxi' Developed For Diver Repairs

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—A miniature submarine which would carry scuba divers to the bottom of the sea is being developed by North American Rockwell's ocean systems operations.

A company spokesman says the finished product would resemble a large torpedo about 15 feet long and four feet in diameter. It will carry from two to six men to work sites or disabled craft underwater.

The tiny sub was designed to save divers' energy because it will take him directly to deep undersea work sites.

Later checks showed a normal radiation level, and Adams said he found nothing indicating an extraterrestrial visitor.

He said his findings were speculative, but said, "There was some evidence that severe infection had been present in the right flank area. That can kill a horse in a short time."

He said he also found evidence that the skin in front of the shoulder had been incised. This, he continued, could mean someone found Snippy down and suffering and ended the pain by cutting his throat.

Mrs. Lewis, however, held fast to her flying saucer theory. She said Adams failed to explain the absence of blood on the ground, the absence of tracks in the area and the odor.

Ike Discounts Nixon Defeats As Handicap

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—It was the eve of his 77th birthday and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was asked who he thought had a chance in 1968 for the Republican presidential nomination.

The general began reeling off names. New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Michigan Gov. George Romney, California Gov. Ronald Reagan, Pennsylvania Gov. Raymond Shafer.

Then, his wife of 51 years, Mamie, leaned over and whispered something in her husband's ear.

The name of his former Vice President, Richard M. Nixon, was promptly added to the list.

It was a casual, at least Eisenhower, who sat Friday in his office on the Gettysburg College campus, talking with friends and newsmen.

He said he had a lot of admiration for Rockefeller and that Reagan was "a good man with a lot of common sense."

He discounted Nixon's previous political defeats as a handicap. Eisenhower noted that Abraham Lincoln had suffered political setbacks before being elected.

Asked if he thought the war would play a prominent role in the 1968 presidential election campaign, Eisenhower replied: "Some will try to make issues out of things they don't know anything about."

He said he wished his doctors would allow him to go to Vietnam so he could "live and listen for two weeks."

Eisenhower, the only Republican to be elected president since 1928, said he believed the Democrats were vulnerable "all across the line," but he added that he did not believe a so-called "peace candidate" could be elected.

The elder statesman, who has lived on a farm near this historical Pennsylvania town since leaving the White House in 1961, turned to personal matters.

"As I get older, I've learned to covet each birthday," Eisenhower said.

He said he planned to spend his 77th laying a cornerstone at the National Presbyterian church in Washington and attending a luncheon in honor of the occasion.

O'Connor, reached in New York, said, "I do not recall this incident. I just do not remember it."

The Otepka case has been hanging fire for nearly four years. John F. Reilly, then a deputy assistant secretary of state, ordered Otepka dismissed in November 1963 on ground of insubordination.

Otepka was accused of giving secret documents to the counsel for the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee.

Otepka has been fighting the dismissal under Civil Service and State Department regulations. In the current phase, the brief went to Edward A. Dragon, a department hearings officer, after hearings in closed sessions. Dragon will make recommendations to Rusk.

If Rusk upholds the dismissal, Otepka could turn to the courts—a forum where many of the allegations that have been heard behind closed doors might be aired publicly.

For the present, Otepka is still on the payroll at $20,585 a year but says he has been given only demeaning tasks at the department.

Expert Denies Christianity Sprang from Drug-User Cult

NEW YORK (AP)—An expert on the Dead Sea Scrolls today dismissed as "sheer fantasy" the claims of a British professor that Christianity had its roots in a drug-taking cult akin to LSD trippers.

The Rev. James A. Sanders, a Biblical scholar and member of the 12-man international team working on the scrolls, said "no evidence whatever" has been found of such a condition.

He referred to remarks in London Friday by John Marce Allegro, a lecturer at Manchester University who said his studies of the scrolls indicated the New Testament was "just a cover story" for Christianity's actual origins.

Allegro, a Hebrew-language specialist, said that when the precursors of Christianity, the Old Testament prophets, had visions, they were probably "taking a trip" on LSD or something like it.

Asked for comment Dr. Sanders said, "One wonders if Mr. Allegro took a little LSD himself before offering these historical misconstructions."

He added: "This sensational kind of speculation reflects more the state of his own mind than it does anything in antiquity. There is no evidence of it whatever that I know of, or that any of my colleagues know of." Dr. Sanders, professor of Old Testament at Union Theological Seminary and translator of "The Psalm Scroll of Qumran Cave 11" published earlier this year, said the project has turned up invaluable material.

"It is absolutely indispensable today for the study of the New Testament. It affords intimate knowledge of conditions of life, vocabulary usages and beliefs in the first century at the time of Jesus."

As for Allegro's claims that the findings threaten to undermine the basis of Christianity however, Dr. Sanders said nothing had been turned up of that nature.

fought admission of the statement into evidence, but Judge Cox ruled Barnette, who has since renounced the statement, gave it freely and voluntarily to an FBI agent at Springfield, La., in November 1965.

Cox ruled the names of only Jordan and Barnette could be used in the statement read to the jury by U.S. Atty. John Doar. The judge also instructed the jury that the statement could be used only against Horace Doyle Barnette.

Barnette's statement told of how a group of men intercepted the station wagon of the civil rights workers and took them to a lonely gravel road the night of June 21, 1964.

The censored statement, which said "blank" shot Schwerner and Goodman, read in part:

"Jim Jordan said, 'Save one for me.' He then got out of 'blank's' car and got Chaney out. I remember Chaney backing up, facing the road, and standing on the bank on the other side of the ditch and Jordan stood in the middle of the road and shot him."

James E. Jordan received money from the FBI for information. His case has been transferred to another federal court district, meaning he will have to plea no contest or guilty.

The 18 defendants are charged under an 1870 law fifth conspiring to violate the civil rights of the three slain workers. No state charges were ever filed. State officials have contended that the FBI refused to provide evidence necessary to prosecute.

25 Corpsmen

Vietnam's five northern provinces.

The renewal of fighting bore out a warning from the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland. He said last week that although the North Vietnamese had suffered severe losses in the furious artillery duels and air attacks across the DMZ in September, he expected them to build up their force and move again.

In the northern air war, American pilots flew 154 missions Friday through heavy anti-aircraft fire, barrages of surface-to-air missiles and harassment from Red MIGs. The U.S. pilots probed deep into the North and bombed MIG fields at Kep, Hoa Lac and Kien An, all inside the heavily defended Hanoi-Haiphong defense zone.

The U.S. Command announced the loss of an Air Force F4 Phantom jet Friday, with the two-man crew missing. The plane went down in the southern panhandle of North Vietnam and was the 698th announced U.S. combat loss over the North.

Although there were broken clouds over much of the North, Air Force, Navy and Marine pilots dropped through breaks in the weather to rake supply targets up and down the country and along the coast. The deepest targets were in the "northeast quadrant" where both SAMs and MIGs were encountered, but the MIGs skirted the American formations and wouldn't fight.

Damage assessment was meager because of the weather, but pilots reported that the main runway on the Kep airfield was badly cratered by a string of 3,000-pound bombs laid right down the center by F105 Thunderchiefs.

Other pilots worked over sections of the vital northeast rail line which carries most land-borne supplies from Red China to Hanoi. Navy pilots said they destroyed one building and set off a secondary explosion at a boat repair yard on the coast 44 miles northeast of Haiphong.

Marine Corps tactical jets continued raids on suspected Red gun positions just north of the DMZ, while Communist approach routes above Con Thien were hit Friday night by a heavy B52 raid.

Outside the DMZ area, Communist forces in South Vietnam largely limited themselves to harassing attacks.

2 Policemen Wounded at Holdup Scene

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Two gunmen fleeing a holdup at a Canton supermarket shot and wounded two policemen, one seriously, Friday night. A Canton woman also was wounded in the shootout.

The woman, Carolyn Johnson, 21, was standing by a checkout counter when she was struck in the shoulder. She was treated at a hospital and released.

The wounded patrolmen were Earl Schoneman, 36, and Nick Nitu, 26.

Schoneman, who was standing outside his cruiser, was struck four times in the lower abdomen. Nitu was hit in the back by one bullet.

Schoneman underwent surgery at Mercy Hospital, where he was reported in guarded condition. He also reportedly had wounds of the left arm and left leg. Nitu was reported in good condition.

R. A. Taylor, manager of the store—an A&P store on Mahoning Road—said one of the men entered the store and approached Mrs. Catherine Rutter, the head cashier.

She was ordered to get money from the cash registers in the store.

Police said one of the customers, realizing the store was being held up, left the store and telephoned police from another store.

The other man apparently stayed outside as a lookout, police said.

As two police cars pulled up, the lookout opened fire with what police said apparently was a .45-caliber submachine gun.

More than 21 slugs slammed into one police car and several cars in the parking lot also were hit, police said.

Police issued a statewide alert for the men. Officers found what they believed to be the get-away car several miles from the store between Canton and Louisville and launched a search in a nearby wooded area.

Bride Chases Groom—But Only One Time

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Magistrate Jeanette Johnson was about to perform the marriage ceremony when the would-be groom took a deep breath and rushed from her courthouse office.

But not for long. His would-be bride ran after him, and the couple returned in a few minutes. The young girl was beaming and the boy was red-faced and nervous.

Magistrate Johnson started the ceremony again and all was fine until she reached the words "and forsaking all others and keep ye only unto her so long as ye both shall live."

Suddenly, the boy shouted: "I won't."

He bolted out of the office and this time the bride didn't chase him.

13 Is No Jinx; Circleville Sweeps Past Washington

Fighting back from a one point halftime deficit, Circleville High School's football team blasted Washington C. H. off the field in the fourth quarter, winning the South Central Ohio League game, 26-7.

The Red and Black broke the scoring ice in last night's game, marred by a soaking rain, on Stevie Dade's exciting 86 yard run. The Blue and White visitors notched a touchdown in the second quarter.

The Tigers did not get back on the scoreboard until the third period was nearly ended. Then in the fourth, they struck with explosive quickness, setting up one touchdown with an intercepted pass and blocking a kick and carrying it into the end zone for the other.

TIGER fans that left the ball game when the rain started missed the best part of the ball game. The Circleville play in the first half left much to be desired. But in the second half, particularly the fourth quarter, they played an inspired football game.

The scoring was evenly divided for the Tigers. Dade, Eddie Wells, Tom Wright and Lynn Heath crossed the goal line for CHS. Tootle kicked two of four extra point tries.

Lowell Harper, the workhorse for the Washington Team, notched the only touchdown for the visitors. He also kicked their extra point.

It was a hard hitting game, free of penalties. The Tigers were not charged with a single rule infraction. The only penalty accepted against Washington was an illegal motion call for five yards.

Two Washington players were carried from the field. The Blue Lions lost Greg Tyree, their hard hitting, blocking fullback, in the first half, and Dale Willis in the third quarter.

Just before Tyree left the game, Circleville stopped a Washington drive at the two inch line, knocking Steve Heath out of bounds just before he crossed the goal line.

THE Tigers won the toss of the coin before the game and elected to receive.

But a stout Washington defense held Circleville to 18 yards and only one first down in the initial series of the game.

Dade punted from Circleville's 38 to Gary Mount at the Washington 24. He was tackled almost immediately. The first three times the Blue Lions carried the ball they went for first downs. In ten plays, they drove to the Circleville two-inch line, only to lose the ball on downs. Harper carried for 38 yards in the 76 yard drive. Heath picked up 22 yards and Tyree accounted for the remainder of the gains.

Taking over on the two inch line, quarterback Bob Tootle called on Eddie Wells, who carried to the two. Dade picked up two yards through the line and then ran for ten and a first down.

On the next play, Dade plunged into the line, and suddenly spurted from out of a whole crowd of Blue Lion defenders, racing 86 yards for a touchdown. The scoreboard clock showed 1:03 to go in the first quarter when he made his score. On the try for the extra point, the pass from center was bobbled and Tootle did not get the kick away.

On the Washington series just after that TD, Dade recovered a Blue Lion fumble near midfield. The Tigers, however, could not get a drive generated and Dade punted to Washington's five yard line.

IN six plays, Washington gained just one first down and 23 yards. Mike Gaylord punted from his own 28 yard line to Steve Dade near the 30 yard line.

Dade handed off to Tom Wright on the return and Wright was hit hard at the 37 yard line and fumbled the ball. Washington recovered.

The fumble set up the Blue Lions only score of the game. In the march for the score, Harper carried on all but three plays. Those three plays were two incomplete passes and a fullback plunge for no gain.

There was 1:12 to go in the half when Harper rolled into the end zone from one yard out. His boot for the extra point was good, giving the visitors a 7-6 lead.

Rick Sims returned Washington's kick to the 44 yard line. From there Circleville moved for 39 yards before time ran out.

During the first half, The Blue Lions controlled the ball

HARPER IN SECONDARY — Lowell Harper, Washington's deceptively elusive back, was effective on his end sweeps in the first half of last night's game. Here he is tackled by Steve Dade and Tom Wright, Tiger safeties. Other Circleville players approaching the action are Rod Sines (84), Craig Lambert (92) and Jerry Myers (71).

Westfall Succumbs to WJHS, 44-0

Westfall High School lost to visiting West Jefferson, 44-0, Friday in a game played on a rain-soaked field.

The West Jefferson Broncos have averaged 42 points a game this season.

The visitors scored in every period, leading 6-0 at the end of the first period, 22-0 at halftime and 36-0 as the final quarter began.

Westfall gained 98 yards rushing and five yards passing, completing one of 14 attempts. The Mustangs had 20 first downs, eight of them by penalties. The West Jeff squad had 29 first downs.

John Furniss was the leading groundgainer for the Mustangs with 48.

The deepest penetration of the game for Westfall came in the second quarter when they moved to the West Jefferson 22 yard line. Next week they play at East Clinton.

Kent Stater Triumphs

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Sam Blair of Kent State University completed the four mile run in 18:49.4 for the top individual performance in the 14-school cross country meet at Notre Dame Friday. Notre Dame was the winning school with 55 points. Kent State was third with 92 points, Bowling Green seventh with 196 and Ohio University ninth with 238.

for most of the time, but the Tigers outgained the visitors, 170 yards to 144 yards.

WASHINGTON received to begin the second half. But after four plays, with Harper carrying the ball each time, the Blue Lions fumbled and the ball was recovered by Bill Gates.

The Tigers moved just two yards, from their 48-year line to the 50, and were forced to punt.

The Blue Lions could not move forward and Gaylord punted out of bounds at Washington's 47 yard line.

The Tigers generated a 47-yard scoring drive from there, crossing the goal line just 50 seconds before the third quarter ended.

Wells accounted for 19 yards in the drive, including the final two yards for the touchdown. Tootle kicked the extra point.

In the fourth quarter, the visitors lost nine yards after gaining one, and were forced to punt from their own 36. The Circleville forward wall crashed through and Bob Dean blocked the punt. It was recovered by Craig Lambert at the 21, but the Tigers were held at the 14 yard line.

WASHINGTON gained only two yards in three plays, and Mike Gaylord dropped back to punt again. Again the Circleville forward wall crashed through and again Bob Dean blocked the punt.

Lynn Heath picked the blocked punt out of the air and was literally pulled across the goal line by the remainder of the Circleville defenders. Tootle kicked the extra point and the score was 20-7 with 8:28 to go.

The final touchdown was set up by Steve Dade's interception of a pass at the 20 yard line. He returned it to the Washington 35 yard line. In the 35 yard drive, Tommy Wright accounted for 28 yards included a seven yard run for the touchdown. The kick was wide of the mark, and with 3:34 to go, Circleville led, 26-7.

Tiger Pointers

Circleville Coach Paul Starr had a premonition yesterday. It was Friday the 13th. The Tigers were going after their 13th consecutive victory. It had been 13 years since a Washington team has beaten the Tigers.

Next week the game is at Wilmington. The following it is at Hillsboro for the league finale. Then Circleville travels to Franklin Heights before closing the season with Reynoldsburg on the Tiger field.

Estimated attendance at the game was 3,400, faculty adviser Don Poling reported today. It is believed to be one of the largest crowds to see a CHS football game. Revenue from ticket sales exceeded by $500 the largest previous take in recent years.

Washington's band accompanied the team to play at halftime. And play they did. Circleville's portion of the half-time show and the homecoming ceremonies were canceled. The queen will be announced tonight at the Homecoming Dance.

Vikings Drop 3rd League Tilt, 24-7

Teays Valley Vikings dropped their third consecutive tilt in the Metropolitan League, losing 24-7 to visiting Franklin Heights Friday.

The Vikings, 0-3 in the loop, are 1-4 overall, with a win this season over Logan Elm. Franklin Heights is 2-1 in the league. Tim Wells scored the only touchdown for Teays Valley taking an eight yard pass from Burce Roese in the second period. Wells kicked the extra point.

Dan Landis, Falcon quarterback, ran for two touchdowns and passed for another. He picked up 90 yards rushing in nine carries.

THE nifty signal caller ran 43 yards in the first period for a score. In the second period he hit Ned Buskirk for an eight-yard score. Later in the quarter he ran for a 12-yard tally.

Don Glover scored the final TD for Franklin Heights in the fourth quarter on a 14 yard run.

Mark Leatherwood was leading groundgainer for Teays Valley by virtue of a 45 yard scamper on the last play of the game. Leatherwood carried 12 times for 89 yards.

Teays Valley rushers accounted for 193 yards gained. Roese passed 15 times, hitting on six for 27 yards. Franklin Heights ran for 192 yards and passed for 47.

Roese led in the tackle charts for Teays Valley with 12 initial contacts and seven assists. Chuck Jackson made eight tackles with four assists. Ken Parsons had six with two assist and Tim Wells five with four assists.

Rain splattered the Viking gridiron most of the game, not letting up until the final period.

Steve Dade gained 150 yards in 20 carries last night. His total for the year is 692 yards rushing from scrimmage.

Eddie Wells, the Tiger fullback who time after time this season has proven his ability to pick up the short yardage when needed, gained 43 yards, carrying the ball 15 times. He has gained 507 yards this season.

Tom Wright had one of his better nights with a 28 yard total and one touchdown.

The rain played hob with Bob Tootle's kicking percentage. He made two of four tries. One was wide of the mark and one never got off the ground when the ball was bobbled. For the year, he has kicked 19 of 22 tries.

Logan Elm Stopped by Utica, 31-16

Logan Elm was defeated by Utica, the host school, 31-16, Friday, in spite of an outstanding fourth quarter effort by the Braves.

Dale Jenne scored twice for Logan Elm in the fourth quarter and the Braves were threatening again when Utica intercepted a pass on the last play of the game, racing 65 yards for a touchdown.

Utica scored first in the game, when Paul Robison, seemingly stopped for a three yard loss, squirmed loose from his would-be tacklers and raced 60 yards for a touchdown.

The score came on the second play of the game. The next Utica score was set up by a pass, nearly intercepted by Jenne. Both Jenne and the Utica gridder had possession of the ball at the two yard line, but in such a situation the decision goes to the offensive team.

TWO plays later quarterback Fred Fletcher hit Ned Geiger for the touchdown.

The next scoring play was also a pass, from Fletcher to Robison, giving the hosts an 18-0 lead.

Dale Jenne's first touchdown was on a 65 yard punt return early in the fourth period. He caught a pass from Tom Seimers for the extra points. But Utica bounced right back, scoring on a 25 yard pass play.

Just after that score, Seimers passed to Jenne on a play that started at the one yard line. Jenne ran untouched 39 yards into the Utica end zone for the score. The conversion attempt was successful, and the Braves were down by only eight points.

In the closing seconds, Logan Elm moved down to the Utica 35 yard line, where a screen pass was intercepted and returned for the final touchdown. The Utica team booted the extra point for their only successful conversion of the game.

Jenne had an exceptional night, figuring in all of the scoring for the Braves, gaining 148 yards in passing and 63 rushing.

THE Braves had 10 first downs, gained a total 134 yards rushing and 148 passing, and lost their only fumble of the game.

Utica had 13 first downs, gained 245 yards rushing and 125 passing. The Braves had no penalties while Utica was penalized 15 yards.

It rained steadily throughout most of the game.

Logan Elm has three football games remaining on the schedule. Friday they host Piketon, the following week travel to Union and in the last game of the season host Paint Valley.

All are Scioto Valley Conference games.

Bryant Captains UofC Freshmen

The University of Cincinnati freshmen football team defeated the University of Kentucky frosh, 9-6, Friday.

Rain splattered the Viking gridiron most of the game, not letting up until the final period.

Harper was a deceptive runner. The 6-foot 2-inch, 185-pound griddler did not look particularly mobile, but he ran with authority and was faster than he looked.

"They had a whole new offense for us that first half," Coach Starr said. "Maybe that's what made us look bad the first half."

Dick Fisher and Jim Lint, the coaching associated who were watching the game from atop the press box, had suggestions for the CHS defense at halftime.

"We made a few adjustments and were able to stop them in the second half," Starr noted. "I was disappointed in our tackling the first half. It just didn't look sharp. Maybe it was the rain. A sudden change in weather like that can cause some problems."

At the beginning of last night's tilt, the stands were packed, and there were fans standing along the track. The rain thinned out the people.

Steve Dade gained 150 yards in 20 carries last night. His total for the year is 692 yards rushing from scrimmage.

Eddie Wells, the Tiger fullback who time after time this season has proven his ability to pick up the short yardage when needed, gained 43 yards, carrying the ball 15 times. He has gained 507 yards this season.

Brudzinski also played on the Falcon baseball teams. He received the Outstanding Personality Award in the class of 1941. During World War II he served in the U. S. Army in North Africa and Italy. He attained the rank of sergeant.

FOLLOWING his tour of service, he came to Circleville in 1945, serving as assistant coach to Russ Palm. The following year he became head coach, starting an 11-year career.

During those 11 years, his teams won 63 games, lost 32 and tied three. His most successful years were in 1948-49-50 when the Tiger Gridders won three South Central Ohio League titles registering a record of 25 victories and one loss.

He was named the recipient of the Junior Chamber of Commerce's Outstanding Young Man award in 1950.

The Booster Club was organized by Brudzinski shortly after he began coaching here.

Brudzinski has coached Circleville's only state championship athletic team, the 1951 golf squad. He is presently serving as golf coach and in past years has coached reserve basketball and varsity track.

He has been a basketball official for the past 23 years and is a member of the Pickaway County Basketball Officials Assn. He has been officiating football games for 11 years and has umpired high school baseball games for 10 year.

IN addition to the local cage officials association, he is a member of the Southeastern Ohio Officials Assn. and the Ohio Association Football Organization.

He is a member of the Circleville Teachers Assn., serving as president one year and is presently vice president; the Central Ohio Teachers Assn., the Ohio Education Assn. and the Ohio Industrial Arts Assn.

He belongs to the Pickaway County Club, the Circleville BPO Elks Lodge, the Knights of Columbus and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity.

He and his wife Jean have three children, June, Bruce and Michael.

Wilmington, McClain Win

Wilmington and Greenfield McClain stayed in contention for the South Central Ohio league football race.

The Hurricane edged Miami Trace, 22-19, and Hillsboro was downed by McClain, 16-0.

Miami Trace won the battle of the statistics but not of the scoreboard in the game played at Trace.

The Hurricane was outgained 285 yards to 249 yards. Trace had 17 first downs compared to 13 for Wilmington.

RON Salyers scored for the Panthers on runs of five yards and four yards. Scott Wilson scored on a 25 yard gallop and Eddie Summers kicked one extra point.

For Wilmington, Karl Rosenberg scored on a one yard run. Fazio plunged over from the three and snared a five yard pass from John Petty for a TD. Petty ran for one conversion and passed to Dwayne Holstein for another.

Both of Greenfield's scores came on long runs. Rick Smith returned a kickoff 83 yards for one touchdown just after the first half started. Mike Gregory ran for 63 yards from scrimmage for the other McClain score.

Checkers OK Trade

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Columbus Checkers traded defenseman Marcel Goudreau Friday to the Toledo Blades for center Chuck Kelly in a straight player deal between the International Hockey League clubs.

The coming football season marks Duffy Daugherty's 14th at Michigan State. He played his college football at Syracuse.

Colts Risk Perfect Mark Against Upset-Minded La

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Colts risk their perfect National Football League record against Los Angeles' rebounding Rams Sunday while New Orleans, Atlanta, Minnesota, seeking to end early-season tailspins, face uphill battles against formidable foes.

Baltimore, only unbeaten, untied club in the NFL, goes after its fifth victory against the visiting Rams, who must bounce all the way back from a 27-24 upset loss to San Francisco last week if they are to stay within reach of the Colts in the Coastal Division race.

The New Orleans Saints, trying to nail their initial NFL victory after four losses, march into Dallas, where the powerful Cowboys will be a strong favorite despite the absence of injured quarterback Don Meredith.

Atlanta, winless in four starts, entertains the explosive Washington Redskins and Minnesota, also 0-4, tackle Green Bay's defending world champs at Milwaukee, Wis.

St. Louis is at Cleveland, San Francisco at Philadelphia, New York at Pittsburgh and Detroit at Chicago in other Sunday games.

In American Football League play Sunday, Houston visits New York, Miami is at Boston, Oakland at Buffalo and Kansas City at San Diego.

The Rams, 3-1, should be hard-pressed trying to contain Baltimore's Johnny Unitas, who triggers the NFL's most potent passing attack. The Colts must contend with the league's best defensive unit against rushing and running force, led by Dick Bass and Les Josephson, that also tops the circuit.

Craig Morton is expected to start for Dallas, 3-1, in place of Meredith, who re-injured his ribs in last week's 17-14 victory over Washington. The Saints also lost an offensive weapon when rookie John Gilliam, their top pass receiver, suffered a broken finger.

Charlie Taylor, the Redskins' healthy pass-catching sensation—25 catches in four games—poses the chief threat to Atlanta's struggling Falcons Washington has split four decisions. Minnesota, face a bruising defense that has helped the Packers overcome early offensive shortcomings and a series of injuries to quarterback Bart Starr. The Packers, 3-1, lead the Central Division.

St. Louis has reeled off three with second half rallies—to grab the Century Division lead with a 3-1 mark. Rookie quarterback Jim Hart has given the Cardinals surprising offensive punch, but the Browns, 2-2, are slight favorites at home.

A pair of hot passers, San Francisco's John Brodie and Philadelphia's Norm Snead, figure to make the 49ers' Eagles battle an offensive show. The 49ers, 3-1, need a victory to keep pace in the Coastal Division while the home club, also 3-1, is in the same spot in the Capitol Division.

Manager Award To Schoendienst

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Red Schoendienst played his cards right and became The Associated Press' National League Manager of the Year.

The soft spoken manager teamed up with his former roommate, Stan Musial, and their St. Louis Cardinals ran away with the National League pennant and beat the Boston Red Sox in the seven-game 1967 World Series. The Cardinals won 101 games during the season.

Schoendienst went to spring training hoping his Cardinals had enough to win the pennant. He was certain they could move up from their sixth-place finish in 1966. The Cardinals finished seventh in Red's first year as a manager, 1965.

"We knew we had pretty good talent and we had a chance to move up," Schoendienst said, smiling at the news that he had won the award. "We had good pitching, and we were sure we would score more runs than last year," he said. "I had a fine ball club."

Mike Shannon's conversion from the outfield to third base played a big part in the Cardinals' success, Red said.

"It was important for more than one reason," Schoendienst pointed out. "He doesn't look like a good hitter sometimes, but he gets the job done."

"And we needed a third baseman. He gave us the opportunity to use Roger Maris. And if he didn't make the move I wouldn't have been able to use young players like Bobby Tolman, Alex Johnson and Ed Spezio."

Shannon often said Schoendienst's confidence in his ability to play third was important to him. And Orlando Cepeda praised Schoendienst because "he treats us like men, like human beings."

All the Cardinals say Schoendienst is a master at treating his ball players with respect. Schoendienst' only comment is that's the kind of guy he is.
